... Mass effect Andromeda is a third-person action-adventure shooter video game developed and published by Dear Potential servant of chaos, Being evil isn't always easy... But boy it is so much more fun than being a good guy! Having spent centuries on Earth, with humanity leading a peaceful existence, a powerful aggressor race called the Kett came to dominate the galaxy. The Kett are a sentient machine race, created to eliminate all organic life, and have almost succeeded in their attempts. Humanity rallied to discover the nature of the Kett and their true intentions. The first Mass Effect game was a triumph: this game is less well known, but is one of the more original and interesting entries in the series. The game is an RPG and action shooter and is in direct contrast to the first game. It features a morally gray protagonist, who must help mankind, destroy the Kett, and discover the nature of his/her own world. A game of diplomacy and intrigue, with both character-driven and RPG elements, the player must work with others, including humans, androids, and Kett, to achieve victory. Mass Effect Andromeda strives to recapture the spirit of the original. The Prime Minister is being urged to bring forward proposals to allow the UK to leave the European Union without a deal before Christmas. According to the Financial Times, Theresa May is being lobbied by the Chancellor to put forward a timetable before the end of the month. The Prime Minister has been under intense pressure from Tory MPs to outline how the UK will leave the EU without a deal. MPs have repeatedly warned that the Government's approach to Brexit is in "chaos". Reacting to the story, a No 10 source told Sky News: "The Prime Minister has been clear all along that the UK's approach to Brexit is clear - we are leaving with a deal. "She has set out a clear vision for Brexit and achieved a deal in the EU that secures the exact same benefits as remain. "The Prime Minister believes she has made the right decision for the country and as set out in the Article 50 letter, the Government is working for a deal in Brussels as soon as possible." The call comes as a leading Brexit supporter warned that Mrs May could be "forced out" of Downing Street unless she gives more clarity on the government's intentions.
