Example Website

A free (and ad-free) website design course. Learn how to build a website from scratch with HTML & CSS.

Part 3: Example Competitor

A competitor's design which you can use as inspiration for your new website.

Part 3..

As the end tag comes after the content block, it is now treated as a standalone div. In this case, it is not possible to enclose a second content block within the end tag as this would be considered as a dangling end tag. You can still enclose an adblock or other element however by using another end tag. For example: The browser again processes the extra end tags and treats them as additional content blocks because they are separated from their siblings by a new line. Here is what the rendered web page looks like:
